

History of lactation at our clinic

Over 10 years ago, South Lake Pediatrics noticed that many of our moms and babies were breastfeeding. However, there were often questions from our patients that came up during the experience of breastfeeding. An idea was formed that our providers needed more lactation (breastfeeding) specific education. From that idea came the reality that each of our nurse practitioners would not only have more education but would go through the process to become Internationally Board Certified Lactation Consultants.

On average, our nurse practitioners have been working in primary care as a PNP (Pediatric Nurse Practitioner) for 14 years with a range of 3-21 years. Cumulatively, that's 161 years! As Internationally Board Certified Lactation Consultants, we have more than 53 years of experience here to help you and your baby.
